Ahmed Yesevi: The Father of Turkish Sufism

Ahmed Yesevi lived in the 11th and 12th centuries and is considered the father of Turkish Sufism. His poetry is known for its simplicity and directness, expressing the core teachings of Sufism in a way that is accessible to all.

“From the depths of my heart, I call upon you, my God, To guide me on the path of truth and righteousness. Show me the way to your divine presence, And fill my soul with your everlasting love.”

Yunus Emre: The People's Poet

Yunus Emre lived in the 13th and 14th centuries and is known as the people's poet of Turkey. His poetry is characterized by its lyrical beauty and its focus on universal human themes such as love, compassion, and the search for the divine.

“My heart is filled with love for all creation, From the smallest insect to the grandest star. In every breath, I see the face of God, And in every moment, I am filled with gratitude.”

Nesimi: The Martyr of Divine Love

Nesimi lived in the 14th century and is considered one of the greatest mystical poets of all time. His poetry is known for its intense passion and its exploration of the ecstatic union between the soul and the divine.

“I am a moth that has flown into the flame of your love, And I will gladly burn to ashes in its embrace. My body may be destroyed, but my soul will live forever, United with you in eternal bliss.”
