Sufism is a mystical branch of Islam that emphasizes the importance of love, devotion, and direct experience of God. Sufis often use poetry to express their spiritual experiences, and many of the most famous Sufi poets have been martyrs.

Two of the most important Sufi martyr poets are Mansur Hallaj and Shams Tabrizi. Mansur Hallaj was a Persian Sufi who lived in the 10th century. He was known for his radical teachings, which included the belief that God is present in all things. Hallaj was eventually executed for his beliefs.

Shams Tabrizi was a Persian Sufi who lived in the 13th century. He is best known as the spiritual teacher of Rumi, one of the greatest Sufi poets of all time. Shams Tabrizi was mysteriously murdered by Rumi's jealous followers.

In his book Two Great Sufi Martyr Poets, Carl W. Ernst explores the lives and works of these two important figures. Ernst argues that Hallaj and Tabrizi were both martyrs to love. They were willing to die for their beliefs, and their deaths have inspired countless others to seek a deeper connection with God.

Two Great Sufi Martyr Poets is a fascinating and thought-provoking book that sheds light on the lives and works of two of the most important figures in Sufism. Ernst's book is a valuable resource for anyone interested in Sufism, Islamic mysticism, or the history of religion.
